notes

A Word About The Woods and Finishes of S. Bent & Bros. Chairs . . .

Handcrafted construction is but one phase in the creation of S. Bent & Bros. chairs. The very first step takes place in the dense wilderness of Northern New England and Canada.

There, in the heart of the nation's virgin timber country, woodsmen fell the giant birches and maples from which the woods are selected for each Bent creation.

From thousands of feet of lumber, only those few pieces that possess perfect graining, flawless texture and matchless appearance are chosen. This uncompromising adherence to absolute quality standards was characteristic of our Colonial forebears as well – and one of the reasons why the work they produced has survived for more than 300 years.

Equally selective is the choice of a finish for each S. Bent & Bros. chair. Compounded from the finest oils and resins available, each stain is applied by hand until the raw wood achieves the precise tone desired.

S. Bent & Bros. chairs are available in a wide variety of colors which include such old standards as walnut, antique brown maple, brown cherry and traditional black. On request, S. Bent & Bros. chairs can also be "colormated" to match most existing finishes (with the exception of enamel finishes). For additional information on finishes and ordering, please see price list.

The final two finish coats are DULUX®*. DULUX is the amazing finish that defies wear and tear, that resists heat and alcohol and is now the standard finish for all S. Bent & Bros. chairs.
